

Modern slavery and human trafficking statement

Compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015
Review of 2023/2024

Introduction

Modern slavery is a crime and a violation of fundamental human rights. It takes various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking, all of which have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty by another in order to exploit them for personal or commercial gain.

We are committed to improving our practices to combat slavery and human trafficking.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 31 July 2024.

Organisational structure

Queen Mary University of London (Queen Mary) is one of the UK's leading universities with over 33,000 students representing more than 170 nationalities.

In the academic year 2023-2024, there were close to 6,000 members of staff and a consolidated turnover of £722.5m.

A member of the Russell Group, we work across the humanities and social sciences, medicine and dentistry, and science and engineering, with inspirational teaching directly informed by our research.

We have London based campuses at Mile End, Whitechapel, Charterhouse Square, West Smithfield and Lincoln's Inn Fields, with other locations across London. Internationally we have presence across the globe and significant operations across Paris, Malta, Singapore and in four locations in China, teaching over 5,000 students.

Queen Mary has a long, proud and distinctive history built on four historic institutions stretching back to 1785 and beyond. Our founding institutions are the London Hospital Medical College, St Bartholomew's Medical College, Westfield College and Queen Mary College. The vision of our founders, for each institution, was to provide 'hope and opportunity' for the less privileged population in East London and the suburbs of the City of London.

Council is the governing body of Queen Mary University of London, responsible for overseeing our strategic mission, direction and affairs. Detailed below are the committees and boards which provide support and assurance.

Our policies on slavery and human trafficking

We are committed to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business.

Work undertaken.

We ensure that slavery and human trafficking are not taking place within Queen Mary or our supply chains as follows.

- All of Queen Mary's directly employed staff are on standardised terms and conditions, which include an explicit commitment to pay the London living wage as a minimum.
- All agencies who supply Queen Mary with staff are contractually bound to pay the London living wage and provide verification of the identity and right to work for their staff. All significant service/goods contracts are overseen by Queen Mary's Procurement Team and include a commitment to, and evidence of, compliance with the Modern Slavery Act within the tender and award process.
- Our due diligence processes and legal agreements for academic partnerships include a commitment to comply with the Modern Slavery Act. We have confirmed that our partners in China, including our Chinese subsidiary, are required to comply with Chinese law which prohibits human trafficking and forced labour.
- Queen Mary is committed to creating an environment for work and study where staff and students are treated with dignity and respect, and where bullying and harassment are not tolerated. Queen Mary has a Report & Support Platform which allow staff, students and visitors to report incidents related to bullying and harassment, hate incidents or gender-based violence. Support information about specialist external services is also available on the platform.
- Queen Mary has in place a whistleblowing policy which protects whistleblowers and provides a channel to report unethical conduct.
- The University has in place an EDI (Equality, Diversity and Inclusion) group that has strategic overview and supports the implementation of the EDI strategies, ensuring that the University meets its legal requirements to comply with the Equality Act.
- Online training on EDI is mandatory for all staff members at Queen Mary to ensure the principles are embedded.
- The University provides interactive e-learning with two online modules on Unconscious Bias and Tackling Barriers.

- All staff with CIPS (Chartered Institute of Procurement and Supply) membership within the Procurement team have completed the CIPS (Chartered Institute of Procurement and Supply) Ethical Procurement and Supply e-Learning.
- A web resource has been developed to provide guidance for staff on the implications of the Modern Slavery Act, their responsibilities in regard to it, and the routes to escalate concerns or issues they may have about a situation or supplier. Training has been promoted to all staff which includes:

- Queen Mary, via the London Universities Purchasing Consortia, is affiliated with Electronics Watch, which is an independent monitoring organisation that helps public sector buyers' work together to protect labour rights and improve working conditions for workers in their global electronics supply chains, more effectively and less expensively than any single public sector buyer could accomplish on its own.
- Queen Mary procurement team works collaboratively with the Sustainability team to monitor our on-going sustainable procurement performance.
- Queen Mary is committed to buying fair-trade certified products for food and drinks imported from poorer countries to ensure a fair deal for disadvantaged producers.
- We have in place a governance group to lead, govern and progress our People, Culture and inclusion priorities for Disability Inclusion.
- Queen Mary has now been certified to ISO14001.
- The DEFRA prioritisation tool has been used to identify the areas of focus for the next few years. The tool focusses on environment, social, risk, scope and influence.

- As a large organisation rooted in place, we always strive to be the best anchor institution we can be. Our Civic University Agreement brings together new and ongoing activity at Queen Mary to ensure our work meets the needs of our neighbours and partners.
